SECTION - B

VI. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

5×1=5

Education is the manifestation of the perfection already in man ... to me the very essence of education is concentration of mind, not the collecting of facts. If I had to do my education over again, and had any voice in the matter,

I would not study facts at all. I would develop the power of concentration and detachment, and then with a perfect instrument I could collect facts at will. The education which does not help the common mass of people to equip themselves for the struggle for life, which does not bring out strength of character, a spirit of Philanthropy, and the courage of a lion - is it worth the name ? Real education is that which enables one to stand on one's own legs.

(From Vivekananda's call to the Nation)

Questions :

- (1) According to the passage, the collecting of facts is an integral part of education. Write 'True' or 'False'.
- (2) What would the writer develop if he were to do his education over again ?
- (3) What is real education ?
- (4) Mention two objectives of true education as presented in the passage.
- (5) What is the essence of education, according to the writer ?

VII. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow :

5×1=5

Snowball was full of plans for improving the farm. He talked about field drains, silage, and basic slag, and had worked out a scheme for all the animals to drop their dung directly in the fields, at a different spot everyday, to save the labour of cartage. Napoleon produced no schemes of his own, but said quietly that Snowball's plans were useless. But of all their arguments the most bitter was the one that took place over the windmill.

In the long pasture, not far from the farm buildings, there was a small knoll. After surveying the ground, Snowball declared that this was the best place for a windmill, which could be made to operate a dynamo and supply the farm with electricity. This would light the stalls and warm them in winter, and would also run the machinery in the farm. The animals had never heard of anything of this kind before and they listened in astonishment while Snowball talked of fantastic machines that would do their work for them.

Questions :

- (1) In what way was Napoleon different from Snowball ?
- (2) What did they fight about the most ?

- (3) Where did Snowball decide to build a windmill ?
- (4) Why did Snowball want a windmill for the farm ?
- (5) Why were the animals happy about it ?

XV. Read the following passage and make notes.

1×5=5

Winning involves four important dimensions : Self-confidence, mental toughness, winning-oriented thinking and the ability to innovate. Self-confidence stands on three important pillars : feeling good, taking responsibility and developing skills. Mental toughness implies that one does not succumb to pressures, either external or internal. External pressure includes peer pressure, that is, the pressure to conform to the values and behaviour of our equals. Internal pressure refers to the gnawing feeling of doubt that we experience at times when the struggle seems difficult. Winning-oriented thinking, as the term suggests, refers to developing the 'never say die' attitude. It implies the manifestation of two traits : a constant desire to aim for excellence and the endeavour to express one's inherent talents. Innovation is one of the hallmarks of success. One needs to keep upgrading one's skills and also responding to a situation in an appropriate manner with the tools available. As the saying goes, if life throws lemons (difficulties), one must have the ability to make lemonade. Innovation can be cultivated through focus, practice and inspiration.
